

CARRANZA MAY BE RECOGNIZED

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 13.—General Carranza may yet secure recognition as provisional president of Mexico. It all hinges on whether his present stubborn attitude can be modified by his friends in Latin-America.

Pressure now is being brought to have him accept the appeal for a peace conference, prepared by the U. S. and Latin-America, in the friendly spirit in which it is framed. And despite the tone of defiance now manifest in the Carranza camp, President Wilson is understood to be hopeful that an agreement will be reached.

Latin-American diplomats in Mexico City, who are convinced that Carranza dominates the situation, are the mediums in an unofficial program of persuasion. It was learned here today that they have been asked by their colleagues in this country to explain to Carranza that the quickest way for him to secure recognition is to agree to a peace conference along the lines to be suggested in the united appeal. Inasmuch as he dominates the situation, controls a majority of the military chiefs and state governors, he could outvote all of the opposing factions if he would agree to enter a general peace conference. This will be made plain to him and he will also be told that if he does so, then he will receive the wholehearted support of all of the powers and can run the country to suit himself, putting his planned government into action along the lines that will suit the majority.

If Carranza will not agree to this arrangement then an attempt will be made to have his generals abandon him and act independently. Gonzales, at Mexico City, and Obregon, back in command of the chief field army operating toward Torreon, will be the two men whose influence will be most sought. The latter at least, might be persuaded to aid peace if Villa agrees to utterly eliminate himself, and the state department has been told by General Scott that he can be influenced to do so in the interest of a general peace.

Refusal of Carranza to back up the proposal of Charles A. Douglas, Carranza's attorney here, that his agents here talk peace with the Villista representatives, is not considered very serious. It has simply emphasized what Secretary Lansing said at the time, that the offer was an invitation to Villa and Zapata to sue for peace. It also shows that Douglas acted on his own responsibility instead of on orders from Carranza in filing his brief with the state department.

Villa's offer of an armistice, which his agency here utterly repudiates, also is accepted as more for effect in the United States than anywhere else. Ever since Villa was defeated in the initial fighting at Leon, he has been in a receptive mood and has made various overtures toward Obregon which have been promptly rejected. Villa can be handled in the interest of peace and so can Zapata. Carranza, alone, is the stumbling block to this government is trying to devise means of dealing with.

Secretary Daniels officially announced today that there would be no further warship movements in connection with the Mexican situation until the diplomatic negotiations are ended unless a serious anti-foreign crisis should develop. He said that he understands Vera Cruz is quiet and that apparently all danger of trouble there is past.

The army now dominates the situation in Texas so far as the frontier is concerned. Every point where marauders could cross is heavily guarded. Unless Governor Ferguson should request federal aid, the war department will permit the state authorities to deal with the international bandits. The war department has no power to do more than enforce neutrality unless the state authorities grant specific authority. Should Governor Ferguson ask for it, all available cavalry will be rushed to the border and a general campaign of extermination will be begun.

TRAFFIC TIE-UP IN NEW YORK

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Aug. 13.—One of the worst traffic tie-ups in the history of New York occurred this morning when the axle of an Elevated road train snapped just as the train was nearing the Manhattan end of Brooklyn bridge. The accident occurred at the very heart of the morning rush and soon the entire Elevated railway system of Brooklyn was tied up. Tens of thousands of persons who were on their way to work were held up. They tried to board surface cars already crowded to capacity and exciting scenes followed.

Passengers on the broken-down train in getting out had to walk across a two foot open space with a clear drop of 150 feet to the East river if a misstep was made. It was two hours before traffic conditions were normal again.

REPLY SENT TO AUSTRIA-HUNGARY

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 13.—After being approved by President Wilson, the reply of the U. S. to Austria-Hungary's protest on the shipment of war munitions to the allies, was sent forth last night. It was announced at the state department today that the reply would be handed to the Austrian foreign office Monday by Ambassador Penfield at Vienna. Arrangements for the publication of the text of the note have not been made.

The note, it is understood flatly rejects Austria's claim that the U. S. is violating its neutrality by the exportation of munitions to the allies. Austria is told that the market is open to every one and that if Germany and Austria cannot profit by it the fault is not with the U. S. Austria's request that the U. S. immediately place an embargo on munitions export is refused. It is understood. The note explains that if the U. S. did so, at this time, it would be discriminating against the allies for the reason that they control the seas. An embargo there would injure them and aid Germany and Austria.

The Good Samaritan.

There came a knock on the door. The man who was shaving stood for a second and then hastily wiping the lather from his face with a towel he went to the kitchen door. Opening the door he found a hobo standing on the porch. With a whine in his voice the hobo asked if he could get a bite to eat. The man hesitated and with a shake of his shoulder invited the hobo in and gave him a seat in the kitchen table while he set before the wanderer something to eat. After the tramp had satisfied his appetite the man asked him if he would care to smoke and receiving a reply in the affirmative the man handed the hobo several cigars which he had in his pocket. The hobo with a grin stuck one of the cigars in his mouth and lighted up. After the cigar had got going good and the hobo was getting ready to leave the man turning to the tramp said: "Now that you have had something to eat and smoke I want to give you a word of advice; never come again in this neighborhood asking for something to eat." The hobo cast a startled glance at his host and his face dropped when the man continued: "For if you do you are liable to be arrested as several policemen live in this vicinity and I am one of them." As the hobo arose hastily from his chair the policeman informed him that he would not be arrested but to not forget the advice given him. "Well," said the hobo, "all I can say is if you are a cop you are the whitest man I ever met," and the tramp left and has not been seen in that neighborhood since.

STERLING EXCHANGE AT LOW RECORD

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Aug. 13.—International bankers admitted today that the credit of the allies in America is being seriously menaced by the fall of sterling exchange. Continuation of the downward movement, they declared, would result in serious curtailment of the supplies now being exported from America for England, France and Russia.

When sterling exchange dropped yesterday to $4.72 1/2 it reached a new low record. The slump caused great surprise in view of the shipment of more than $50,000,000 in gold and securities received this week from England.

Immense war bills are maturing in this country and bankers assert that credit facilities must be established quickly or the allies will be unable to place any more orders. Wall Street hears that many manufacturers have already refused great orders because they would have had to accept notes running for at least a year.

Russia offered bonds, but these have been accepted in a few cases. While no banker will discuss the possibility of a complete collapse of European credit, it is general talk in Wall Street that such a possibility has been frequently suggested.

There is no question but that the European conflict has been a terrific strain upon the nations involved. It has already cost billions of dollars and the immense cost mounts with every hour that the struggle continues.

WHEAT MARKET EXCITED AND WEAK

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Chicago, Aug. 13.—On an excited opening at the Board of Trade today, September wheat ranged from 110 3/4 to 107 1/2, compared with last night's close of 111 1/4. Sunshine over nearly all the grain raising belt, together with reports that the Dardanelles would soon be forced, thus rendering unnecessary further shipments of wheat from the U. S., were believed to be the causes of the wide fluctuations. December was off nearly 2 cents, the market later steadied, but weakness was everywhere evident. Corn was off nearly a cent and oats the same. Provisions were much weaker, ribs at the start being off 35 cents.

HURRICANE CAUSES $10,000,000 LOSS

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Kingston, Jamaica, Aug. 13.—Damage estimated at $10,000,000 was caused by a terrific hurricane that swept over the northeastern and northern coast of Jamaica last night and early today. Great banana plantations were completely destroyed. Sugar plantations suffered the same fate.

A gale is still blowing, but its violence is decreasing. So far as is known, there was no loss of life, but communications with many points is still cut off and the fate of some settlements is still in doubt.

At 2 o'clock this morning the wind was blowing 40 miles an hour and shortly afterward it had increased to 50 miles an hour. The city was not caught by the full force of the storm, consequently the damage here was slight.

The United Fruit Steamer Sarumax left port last evening, but the wind was so high and the water so rough that she soon returned to port.

WORK BEGUN ON RONDOUT PARK

City Engineer G. Wallace Codwise has started a force of men on the new park which is to be built on the property of the Newark Lime and Cement Company on the Strand. The property will be cleaned up and the buildings on the property will be converted into comfort stations. The ground will be leveled and sand piles placed about the grounds for the use of the smaller children.

Mr. Codwise is making arrangements to secure a number of amusement machines and some of those which are very expensive he is trying to have made here by local men and therefore save the city that much expense.

It is planned to have swings attached to the trees which crosses the property and also to erect "giant strides" which is somewhat on the order of a merry-go-round, in which the children grab ropes which are attached to the top of a pole and then run around, the impetus gives them their "giant strides." There will be see saws and slides which will also appeal to the children.

This is the first park of its kind that the city has undertaken where the children will be catered to and its establishment will meet with the approval of people who have been agitating the park movement in this city.

Lessons and Home Life.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, D. C., Aug. 13.—A number of suggestions to help the rural public school teacher in leading his or her pupils to see the direct relation between home life and their school studies are contained in a new publication of the department of agriculture. This bulletin, No. 281, entitled "Correlating Agriculture With the Public School Subjects in the Northern States" contains a plan of work extending from September through the fall, winter and spring to the end of June. Under this plan each pupil is encouraged to undertake some home project, that is to say, some work at home which will extend through a whole season, will be connected with the instruction in agriculture which the pupil receives at school and a record of the results of which will be faithfully kept and turned in to the teacher at the conclusion of the project. At school the pupil's exercises in arithmetic, spelling, English, geography, etc., are so directed that the value of these subjects in practical life is made clear. For example, in the language lessons, the pupil may be asked to write out the method which he used in testing milk with a Babcock tester, special emphasis being placed upon the need for making the meaning absolutely clear. In the same way the records obtained from cow testing may be used as exercises in arithmetic and the pupil asked to compute the total yield of butter fat, its money value and the estimated profit from any given dairy herd. In the supplement of the bulletin is contained a number of sample score cards designed to assist the teacher in rating agricultural exhibits which the pupils should be encouraged to make. The new bulletin is designed especially for rural teachers in the northern states.

AN EXPERIMENT IN ROAD BUILDING

The road which is being laid on John street between Fair street and Clinton avenue is the latest thing in road building and the results will be watched with interest by the state road contractors in this city. This road incidentally is the first of its kind in this state and there is only one other in the country, that being in the state of New Jersey.

The road is laid under a patented process. Instead of laying the road as was formerly done and then applying the coat of asphalt in a heavy layer and allowing it to penetrate through the road, this process applies the coat of asphalt to each stone at the crusher and then the road is built of this treated stone and a thin layer of asphalt binder applied on the top.

The road is laid of heavy stone all coated with asphalt and rolled. This is then coated with asphalt and then fine stone and sand applied and these two have been treated with asphalt before laying.

The success of the process lies in the getting of a thin film of asphalt on each stone. The great factor in favor of the road is the fact that there is a saving of about eighty five per cent in the amount of asphalt and not only that but it makes the best road obtainable and does away with the softness which as a rule follows in the wake of the coating with asphalt. The road when finished will be almost as hard as concrete.

What appeals to road builders is the fact that all the work of treating the stone can be done at one plant and the stone shipped from there and the process does away with expensive plants along the course of the road, which have to be built and torn down with the building of every road.

The saving in asphalt is due to the fact that the asphalt when applied over the road which has been laid with this treated stone adheres more readily to it and therefore saves a large amount of asphalt, which according to the old methods had to be applied in large quantities in order to soak through.

ANTHRACITE RATES ORDERED REDUCED

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 13.—Wall Street experts estimated today that the anthracite coal roads would suffer a reduction of from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000 as a result of the interstate commerce commission's decision reducing the transportation rates on anthracite from five to 80 cents a ton. That the roads would make up this loss by raising the price to the consumer is the opinion of most of the experts.

Financial writers pointed out that the railroads own the great bulk of anthracite coal and that they would be able to increase the price at their will, at the same time admitting that the independent operators outside of the "railroad ring" had won a victory in that section of the decision ordering through rates for independent shippers.

"Mr. Consumer will pay the freight," said one expert who has closely followed the coal cases. "The supply of anthracite is limited; it is not like the supply of wheat. Therefore the price of anthracite will increase as the demand increases. The dealer must meet higher prices. He will exact his losses from the consumer."

JOINT APPEAL FOR PEACE IN MEXICO

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 13.—The joint appeal of Latin-America and the United States to the Mexican people to unite in burying the hatchet probably will be sent forward late today. Secretary Lansing stated this afternoon that he hoped to clear copies to all American consular representatives in Mexico before the state department telegraph room closes at 11 o'clock tonight.

Meanwhile the entire American situation was characterized by administration officials as "showing improvement." The pressure that is being brought to bear upon Carranza to enter a peace conference is declared to be having weight. It will be redoubled so soon as the joint invitation has been presented.

Villa has agreed in his conference with General Scott, to stand by his original offer to "accept anything" that will suit Carranza in the conduct of a peace convention. Scott is being held on the border to keep Villa lined up should favorable word come from Vera Cruz.

Within the next month definite results one way or the other are certain. The administration believes that the millions of non-combatants in Mexico will meet the suggestion of peace with such unanimous approval that the military factions will be forced into line.

The war department declared that all of its reports from Texas indicated that the disturbances there were lessening. In his conference with President Wilson, acting Secretary of War Breckenridge declared that most of the trouble in Texas was one for the police power of the state and not for the federal government to handle. He declared that most of the fighting has taken place far from the border and that the raiders were cattle rustlers who have been operating in Northern Mexico and have now crossed into the U. S. to continue their operations.

There has been at certain points, he said, evidence that organized bands were at work, but the war department is not convinced that this necessarily is evidence that an invasion of U. S. territory has been or is being contemplated.

Breckenridge said the department was willing to do anything it could to reassure Texas people and told the president that if the Texas authorities specifically asked that the regular army take steps to exterminate the marauding bands he will have Funston do so.

JURY ACQUITS AGENT MCDONALD

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Ossining, Aug. 13.—After he had been acquitted early today of the charge of assault made by Warden Thomas Mott Osborne of Sing Sing prison, Patrick McDonald, confidential agent of State Prison Commissioner Riley, applied to Magistrate Valentine for a warrant calling for the arrest of the warden. The magistrate refused the request.

McDonald asserted, however, that he would not let the matter drop, charging that Osborne had tried to tie him up with charges of frame-ups.

The jury was out only 12 minutes. After the verdict holding McDonald innocent of assault had been rendered, Foreman Robert Tompkins said: "The jury was influenced by the fact that the assault was not serious and that McDonald was authorized by Mr. Riley to take his trip to Ossining."

APPLE BULLETIN NO. 3

The State Department of Foods and Markets has made a contract with the The Fruit Auction Company, of 204 Franklin street, New York city, to auction apples and pears and other produce to be sold during the coming year at auction under the supervision of the department.

The agreement was concluded between John J. Dillon, commissioner of the department, and Victor K. McElheny, Jr., president of The Fruit Auction Company. The contract runs for one year. The shipper will pay a commission of five per cent for the selling of the fruit, and the cost of cataloging and handling samples, which will be about 2c a barrel. Hereafter the shipper paid ten per cent, and usually paid a cartage charge besides.

While this is a promising contract for the auction company, it is regarded as an especially strong move on the part of the department. The auction company is financially strong, having resources of more than a million dollars. The auction company is to advance the freight charges and cash the sales, so that a return, with check, will be sent to the shipper promptly on the day of sale. Then again the department will have the benefit of a strong organization, and of auctioneers experienced in the auction sale of fruit. The auction company has been selling apple buyers other kinds of fruit daily for years. It has accounts with them, knows their financial worth, and has been extending them the trade credit right along. In selling them apples, the volume of the trade is simply increased.

This initiates a departure of great importance to the producers of the state. As soon as the apple market will be included, the growers are already asking the department to handle peaches and other products, and Commissioner Dillon expects to be in a position soon to comply with their request.

Teaching the Adult Immigrant.

The necessity of teaching the adult immigrant how to speak English as soon as possible after his arrival is emphasized by H. H. Wheaton, of the U. S. Bureau of Education in a report just made public.

"With the adult immigrant desire for instruction and ability to acquire language are largely lost," says Dr. Wheaton, "yet inability to speak English is the most serious barrier to intercourse between Americans and foreigners. Furthermore, employers are coming to see the necessity of teaching their foreign-born employees the English language and something of the rules of safety. Experience shows that a large proportion of industrial accidents are due to the fact that foreigners have not understood the orders of the foremen. A canvass of many employers of foreign-born workmen indicates that a knowledge of English is urgently needed. This is particularly true of railroads, steel plants and foundries."

In eight of the principal cities of the United States, according to Dr. Wheaton, the number of foreign-born adults unable to speak English totals 800,000. New York alone has 422,000.

The types of schools adapted to the education of the immigrant are evening, industrial and camp schools. "The number of classes provided by different cities," declares Dr. Wheaton, "is far from adequate." Appropriations are insufficient to provide the requisite teaching. Failure to appreciate the need of increase in accommodations is shown by the fact that 19 cities in the state of New York with a population of 10,000 to 20,000, and with the foreign-born population varying from 1,000 to 7,000, have no public night classes where immigrants can learn the English language.

Dr. Wheaton finds that private and religious agencies have largely supplemented the inadequate provisions made by the state to teach adult immigrant English and American laws and customs.

Why the Bell Rang.

The tune played by the city hall bell on Thursday evening was not due to someone attempting to play a joke with the fire alarm system but to a fallen wire, and the trouble was soon located and repaired. About 8:30 one of the wires of the Kingston Gas and Electric Company on Montrepose avenue got on fire and through which the wire passed on fire, burning the limb through and it fell on the fire alarm wire, snapping it in two. The broken fire alarm wire fell on another electric wire, which caused the fire bell to ring wildly. The burning wire on Montrepose avenue caused the residents some anxiety as it was feared that it might set a house on fire and a telephone alarm was sent in to the Kingston Gas and Electric Company, who soon had a gang of men at work and repairs were quickly made without any further damage being done.

A UNIVERSAL FOOD.

Following Nature's Footsteps.

"I have a boy, two years old, weighing forty pounds and in perfect health who has been raised on Grape-Nuts and milk."

"This is an ideal food and evidently furnishes the elements necessary for a baby as well as for adults. We have used Grape-Nuts in large quantities and greatly to our advantage."

One advantage about Grape-Nuts food is that it is partially predigested in the process of manufacture. The starch contained in the wheat and barley is transformed into a form of sugar by the same method as this process is carried out in the human body; that is, by the use of moisture and long exposure to moderate warmth, which grows the distaste for the grains, and with long baking makes the remarkable change from starch to sugar.

Therefore, the most delicate stomach can handle Grape-Nuts and the food is quickly absorbed into the blood and tissue, certain parts of it going directly to building and nourishing both body and brain. "There's a Reason."

NEWBURGH CHARITY PLAN STUDIED

A number of Kingston officials and social workers went to Newburgh on Thursday to learn something about the management of the Associated Charities of that city. This movement for a charity home in Kingston had its inception in February with the Chamber of Commerce when the first step was taken. The president then appointed a committee consisting of Sam Bernstein, Everett Fowler and William F. Rafferty. After several conferences with the mayor the visit to Newburgh was agreed upon. Those who went were Mayor and Mrs. Canfield, President and Mrs. John B. Kearney, Alderman McKittrick, President Waterbury of the board of charities, Commissioners C. G. Fletcher, Peter C. Osterhout, A. H. Lawatsch, Superintendent Thomas H. Edmonston, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Bernstein, Mrs. Laura MacMillan, Mrs. C. K. Moulton, Mrs. N. J. Murphy and Secretary James E. Canfield of the Chamber of Commerce.

The visitors were met by President Graham Witschick and Superintendent Collins of the city home. Mr. Witschick explained the work of the organization, the way it was financed and the carrying out of the work. The chief aim, he said, was to teach those who need help to help themselves. It has visited homes, found employment and given temporary financial relief to those in need, although it is not the policy to grant permanent help to individuals. The Associated Charities contains the Agency for Dependent Children and the Anti-tuberculosis Society. It is entirely supported by local contributions and its maintenance costs about $3,000 a year. Superintendent Collins spoke of the work of the city and town home and took the visitors to the Children's Home and the Home for the Friendless. The visitors were entertained at dinner by Superintendent Collins and returned home much impressed with the work being done in Newburgh.

Farmhouse Conveniences.

A sink with hot and cold water over it is a great convenience, but if this is not to be had in a country home, pumps leading from both cisterns and well may be had, so that steps may be saved by not having to carry water from the outside. Candlesticks of the Temple.

The seven-branched candlesticks placed in the sanctuary by Moses and those afterward prepared for the temple by Solomon were crystal glasses filled with oil and fixed upon the branches of the candlestick, while in private houses the lamps were generally placed on high stands which rested upon the ground.

ART OF BAIT CASTING.

Landing the Lure That Coaxes the Baiting Black Bass.

The bait caster! What memories of lily-padded lakes, shimmering in the burnished gold of the setting sun, of a roseate twilight peace, when the lake is one vast mirror; of furious battles with that bulldog of the sweet waters, the black bass, are his!

A most difficult art, one that requires more than a modicum of practice to acquire—to place that lure precisely in a given spot, forty or fifty feet away, where a bass may lurk—not near the spot but right in it, mind you—to land that lure so as to simulate a frog or minnow naturally leaping or jumping to escape possible attack by a bass; to do all this with a short rod and high speed reel—casting the lure as a small boy throws an apple from the end of a stick—to do this with accuracy and deftness is no unworthy ambition.

And after the strike comes a battle between a five pound fish and a 150 pound man, equalized by fair tackle, that will put the exhilaration of eternal youth into any man—especially if he proves himself worthy to beat the fish at his own game—to take him with all the handicaps imposed by the necessary tackle and win out against all the snags, tactics, leaps and plunges, rushes and feints employed by the baiting bass.—Warren H. Miller in American Forestry.

The Kind of a Friend to Have.
I have a friend who calls on me every now and then and always gives me a new lease on life. He makes me think more of myself; makes me more ambitious, more determined to see my opportunities and to make the most of them. His calls are like the coming of spring after a long, cold winter, which awakens the sleeping buds and calls out the flowers. The sunshine of his cheerful mind, the alchemy of his optimism, awakens me to renewed effort and encourages me to outdo myself. I am never too busy to see him, and I always urge him to stay, because his presence makes me a larger man, makes life seem more worth while than ever. He helps me to get a new grip upon myself. He arouses me, so that I feel equal to any task when he leaves.—Christian Herald.

ACCIDENTS OF FORTUNE.

Incidents That Led to the Rise of Two Famous Dramatic Stars.

More than 200 years ago a dramatist, sitting in the bar of a London tavern, overheard a girl in the next room reading aloud from a play book, and he was so much pleased by the sound of her voice and the fluency and sprightliness of her delivery that he sought acquaintance with her, obtained her confidence and opened for her the way to a successful dramatic career. That girl, a dramatic genius thus accidentally discovered, was Anne Oldfield, who adorned the English stage for twenty-five years, whose ashes rest in the cloister of Westminster abbey and whose name is one of historic renown.

A theatrical manager in Cincinnati

the seventies, having planned to produce a popular comic opera with a chorus composed of pupils from the public schools, selected Sarah Frost, then a girl about twelve, perceived her theatrical aptitude and provided the opportunity for its development. The manager was Robert E. J. Miles, and under his direction she made her first appearance on the stage and passed her juvenile novitiate.

Her stage name at first was Fanny Brough. Later she adopted that of Julia Marlowe.—William Winter in Century Magazine.

Mock Marriages in India.

"Well, I have attempted a few kindergarten, prep school and college courses in affection," responded the man in the case, "but this represents a real purpose to get rid of my bachelor's degree."

Whereupon he took a little firmer hold.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

FOR THE SHORT BALLOT.

In theory the reorganization of state departments suggested by the Committee on Governor and Other State Officers as embodied in the report submitted by Chairman Tanner to the Constitutional Convention on Wednesday is admirable and except for the obnoxious human nature which may be encountered should work out with entire satisfaction and great benefit to the public.

In appropriate phraseology the committee reports it "is not trying to determine what the State should do but to find a way to do it." To this end, a re-alignment of state departments is proposed which groups officers and departments according to their general functions. Under this plan only the Attorney General and Comptroller of all the State officers now enumerated in Article 5, except Governor and Lieutenant Governor, will be elected. All other department heads shall be appointed by the Governor, with the advice and consent of the Senate.

The theory on which the Attorney General and Comptroller are continued as elective officers is the result of compromise in the committee, the basis of which is found in the peculiar relation which these two offices hold to the people. The comptroller will be directly commissioned by the people to keep a watch upon the acts of all the executive departments, to see that all safeguards and limits are observed and call attention to wrongdoing. If the wrongdoing calls for legal redress, it will be his duty to lay the matter before the Attorney General, and "No executive or administrative functions not appropriate and necessary to the foregoing duties shall be imposed on him."

In other words, the Comptroller will act as the safety valve, and if anything happens it will be up to the Attorney General to prosecute the man who tampered with the boiler and engine. The people will hold the Governor responsible for all State officers except their inspector and attorney, whom they will select personally. Thus the Governor will have the administration of State affairs under his own control but the people will select their own watchdog and constable.

To insure efficient criticism, the Comptroller will be shorn of his power to collect and expend moneys, which will be done by the Department of Taxation and Finance, administered by the State Treasurer, an appointive officer. Consolidation of duties will be further effected by giving the Treasurer jurisdiction over taxes now collected by the Secretary of State, Superintendent of Insurance and Superintendent of Banks. The department also will assume the enforcement of the tax and revenue laws, equalization of assessments, levy, assessment and collection of all taxes, and inspection and supervision of any state board of tax commissioners provided by law.

Departments possessing some degree of judicial or legislative functions are the Department of Education and its Board of Regents, Public Service, Conservation and Civil Service Commissions. In this group the principal change proposed is a Conservation Commission of nine members, one of whom goes out of office each year. But little change is proposed for the departments of State, Health, Agriculture, Banking, Insurance, Labor and Industry.

The Department of Public Works will include functions now performed by the State Engineer, Superintendent of Public Works, Commissioner of Highways, Department of Public Buildings and State Architect. This abolishes the present illogical, unstable and unsatisfactory system by which the State's most important ventures have been conducted with absolute irresponsibility.

The Legislature is given authority to make readjustments whenever necessary, but prohibited from creating new departments. On January 1 last there were 152 departments, boards, commissions, etc., in the State. Under the proposed Article 5 they will be consolidated into 15.

Except for the power of inevitable log-rolling vested in the Senate, the proposed article is entirely commendable.

The action promised by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo to make public on October first the names of those who are able but unwilling to repay the government for the money advanced to them to enable them to return home from Europe at the outbreak of the war will be an interesting experiment. The names of those not able to make reimbursement will not be published. In numerous instances people abundantly able to repay the government have refused to do so, and suit to recover the money advanced will be begun against them. If the list is not too long, it might be well to make public the list of those who have repaid the government loan. Their names would look well beside the names of those who will not pay. Some people do not think it wrong to cheat the government but the majority think otherwise. Publicity may not cure crooks but it lets other people know they are in their proper class.

VOLUNTEER LIFE SAVERS.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

A new organization is in process of growth, with recruits from all over the country—the National Volunteer Emergency Service. As may be guessed by its name, it represents a mounted corps of life-savers, men and women, trained for service in the administering of help to the wounded and ready for rescue work wherever the call sounds.

In New York city alone there are hundreds of women pledged to the saving of human life, and in the eastern states many more are in line.

It is a precise, businesslike organization, and the mounted corps makes a fine showing. The women wear smart khaki uniforms, broad-brimmed campaign hats, riding boots and the gauntlets of the cavalryman; and attached to each uniform is a small bag containing all the requisites for first aid to the injured.

Twice a week the corps drills, and instruction is given in the mode of procedure in a calamity of any sort—fire, flood, individual accident, war and all along the line of casualties that may betide mankind.

They go through the process of bandaging broken arms or legs, of inducing artificial respiration, the making of a tourniquet in case of profuse bleeding—everything that helps in the saving of life under difficult conditions and of giving relief as quickly as possible.

With a combination of gentleness and nerve, force and training, we may expect much from this new corps of volunteer nurses, and saviors of life.

It is well to be ready when there is an insistent call, which reaches to the end of a great city; but almost daily little experiences are brought to light where the call must be answered by just one or two because it is not loud enough to extend any farther.

It may come on the street or in the home; and if someone is at hand with a little knowledge of medicine and restoratives and an inkling of the right way to turn, it may be the one thing needed to make possible the saving of life before a physician arrives with his ripened experience and knowledge.

Not infrequently there creeps into newspaper stories of accidents mention of the timely aid and practical help extended by a man or woman outside the profession of a physician or nurse, but skilled in small effective ways. What might have happened but for their activity is all conjecture; what did happen is sufficiently illustrative of the need of preparedness for the unexpected. One does not like, in imagination, to count the many who would stand around in like circumstances and ineffectively wring their hands, pitying, but nothing more.

And such calls are more or less frequent, with the outcome largely dependent upon the make-up of those nearest at hand.

In homes where children abound there is no immunity from accidents. The little ones are cut, battered and bruised in proportion to their activities, and sometimes the emergency calls for immediate action if the little life would be saved, or even suffering be lessened. It is almost imperative to have an emergency shelf, equipped with ointments for burns and bruises, preparations for the prevention of blood poisoning and some of the mild medicines that mothers can administer to small people without calling a physician.

When the little fellow comes in with blood freely flowing from a big gash—and where is the little fellow to whom it never comes?—it is, or it may be, very important to stop the flow quickly; and just to know how to help in the steadying of nerves and the quickening of fingers. For nerves and fingers may grow pretty unsteady and clumsy when one's own little fellow is laid low.

Perhaps we most admire the very capabilities that we do not possess in marked degree; but in these times of unusual opportunities it is distinctly to one's discredit to be uninformed regarding some of the simpler means of coming to the rescue when human life is endangered or of offering some measure to easement when suffering is at hand.

And so is not the National Volunteer Service an organization to commend?

And would it not be well if every city were given representation?

FRANCES SHAFFER.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

Wife—"Do you think, John, silence is golden?" Hubby—"I'm sure of it! If I'd kept my mouth shut I'd still be a bachelor."—Judge.

"Those train robbers had opposite methods." "How so?" "While one was loading the rifle, the other was rifling the load."—Baltimore American.

Schoolmistress—"Well, Freddie dear, what did you learn yesterday?" New boy (after deep thought)—"You ought to know—you taught me."—Punch.

We knew it was too good to be true. The Berlin Tageblatt says that the Kaiser never said the war would end in October, thereby shattering our plans for wintering in the Tyrol. —Buffalo Express.

"How do you happen to be in prison?" "It is the result of an accident." "You ran over some one with your auto?" "No, ma'am, I fell over a chair and waked up the owner of the house."—Houston Post.

"Pinocchio," said Three-Finger Sam, "is one game there ain't no use o' me tryin' to learn." "Too hard?" "It's easy enough. But I can't get over reachin' for a gun the minute some one hands me a deck with more'n four aces in it."—Washington Star.

"Senator, I wish you would give me a job as your private secretary." "Oh, my boy," responded the oily Senator, "don't get mixed up with the Government Service. Nothing to it. Ruins a young man. Besides, I have promised that position to my son."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Troubles of a Prophet.

In a certain town the local forecaster of the weather was so often wrong that his predictions became a standing joke to his no small annoyance, for he was very sensitive. At length in despair of living down his reputation, he asked headquarters to transfer him to another station.

"Why," asked headquarters, "do you wish to be transferred?" "Because," the forecaster promptly replied, "the climate doesn't agree with me."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Would Limp, Too.

The stupid person sometimes says a witty thing without knowing it. A professor in a medical college had one exasperating student.

"You see, Mr. Smith," said the professor to this young man one day, "the subject of this diagram limps, because one of his legs is a trifle shorter than the other. Now, what would you do in such a case?" "I should limp, too, I think, sir," replied the student, with an expression of perfect innocence on his face. —Tit-Bits.

The Shell Shortage.

A. J. Drexel, praising the English volunteer army, said in New York the other day:

"Oxford and Cambridge undergraduates fight side by side with coal miners, Peers' sons and millionaires' sons hobnob with plumbers and blacksmiths in the ranks."

"There are lots of 'nuts' (dudes) in the volunteer army—and the Kaiser finds them pretty hard to crack, too—notwithstanding their lack of shells."—Washington Star.

New One on the Boss.

It was to be the first double-header of the baseball season. The boy came into the office of the boss apologetically, dragging his cap from his head and twirling it shyly as he stood on one foot like a hantam rooster. The boss looked up.

"Mr. Blank," he said in a quavering voice, "I'd like ter git off for de day. Me grandmudder—" "Is sick. O yes, I know," finished the boss, for he was wise to the double-header. "In fact, he was planning on seeing that game himself."

"Me grandmudder—" "Sure boy, the funeral is at 3 o'clock and you got to change your clothes and slick up a bit," pestered the boss.

"Me grandmudder—" persisted the boy again, "wants ter go ter de ball game. I got ter stay home and mind de kids."—Boston Enterprise.

New Management of The Star.

The Star Theater on Central Broadway will open for the season on September 4, after being thoroughly renovated and painted throughout. Since the theater was first opened several years ago by the late Philip Sampson it has been under a number of different managements, but this year, Anthony Gentile, the owner of the building, will manage the theater assisted by William Vogt, the retired policeman. Mr. Gentile expects to show the latest and best in moving pictures and the operator in charge of the movie machine will be Charles Newkirk. A new machine will be installed in the theater.

Injured in Laundry.

Samuel Growitz of Brooklyn, who has been working at the Rip Van Winkle Hotel at Pine Hill, caught his hand in a machine in the laundry of the hotel Thursday morning and crushed the end of three of his fingers on his right hand. He was brought to this city and taken to the Benedictine Sanitarium, where Dr. O'Meara removed a portion of one of the fingers but found that he would be able to save the rest.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

1295—A Simple Set of Underwear for Girls—Drawers, Petticoat and Under Waist.

Cambrie, muslin, nainsook, long cloth or crepe may be used for the drawers and petticoat; lawn is also nice for the petticoat, and the model is good for flannel or flannelette. Canton or domet flannel could also be used for the drawers. If a strong, durable underwear is wanted, drill or jean is best. Waists of this class are also sometimes made of canton flannel. The pattern includes all styles illustrated. It is cut in 6 sizes: 2, 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. The drawers require 1 1/2 yards of 36 inch material, the petticoat requires 2 yards, and the underwaist 1 1/2 yards for a 10 year size. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

HUDSON VALLEY COMMERCE CHAMBER

A meeting of delegates from the Chambers of Commerce of the Hudson Valley was held at The Palatine in Newburgh on Thursday when was organized a Hudson Valley Chamber of Commerce to plan steps for development and improvement of this section of the state. S. Carlisle Goodrich, president of the Newburgh body, president and after dinner an address was delivered by Creswell McLaughlin. President John B. Kearney and Secretary James E. Canfield of Kingston were present. There were about forty delegates present from Beacon, Newburgh, Haverstraw, Peekskill, Athens, Wappingers Falls, Walden and Catskill.

A committee on nominations consisting of F. S. Howland, Vance E. Roberts, John B. Kearney, A. H. Blackburn, John P. Cashin, William F. Hoehn, F. W. Tupper, Frank S. Decker and S. Carlisle Goodrich was appointed and the following officers selected: President, Graham Witschick, Newburgh; secretary, William F. Hoehn, Peekskill; treasurer, F. S. Howland, Athens. Vice-president of each organization will be appointed, and three delegates will represent each body.

Addresses were made by William H. Frank of Poughkeepsie and J. E. Canfield of Kingston, William Lawson, John B. Kearney, Frank S. Decker, F. S. Howland, A. H. Blackburn and E. M. Drake. It was decided to hold the next meeting in Poughkeepsie to perfect by-laws.

Mr. McLaughlin spoke in part as follows:

The man who stands alone is helpless. In a city he is useless as a citizen; he is a failure—no matter how virtuous his life, no matter how honest his intentions. He has no place in the great organization of the world's work and does not belong to this age. Such men are like evaporated peaches—the longer they last the dryer they get and are never any good until they are boiled or buried.

A town may become like such a man and dry up. It is the cosmopolitan instinct of co-operation that makes a town prosperous. Start a store at one end of a street and you have nothing but a store. Concentrate a dozen stores in one center and you have a market. Where you bring the crowd you bring business and business means co-operation.

A prosperous man must be the companion of crowds. A city must be the center of traveling life. It is the outside that supports the inside.

Men and cities that live on themselves are suffering from civic tuberculosis.

It takes a new citizen to discover and rectify the errors of the old.

Fighting for a purely selfish personal purpose finally ends in suicide.

Fighting for a principal produces results.

The fighting strength of a city should be used for self-defense and not for self-slaughter. The trouble with some of us is that we hate every man who disagrees with us and then we have those fellows who are always shouting for harmony. There is no harmony in the sea and there is no disease there—yet the sea carries the ships of the world. Harmony means submission, depression, annihilation. The only harmonious things are silence, death and a stagnant swamp. When you find a lot of men disagreeing with one another you may be sure they are struggling after truth. Conflict is an evidence of civic virility. But the conflict should not be a war of personal ambitions. It should be a battle of ideas.

The world has no use for perfect men. When one man frankly disagrees with another and tells him so still holding his respect—then you are approaching an ideal civic condition and there is some chance for your community.

Men do not really hate one another; it is the disease of the solitary life. The companionship of crowds cures this. In war friend and enemy fight alongside each other and their courage finally makes them comrades.

Loyalty to an ideal lifts a man above the meaner influences of life. The man who gives justice to his enemy and acknowledges his nobler attributes is the sort of man who makes a good citizen.

Every hour and every errand, and every act of revenge is a waste of valuable time. Political, commercial, social—men should stand upon their merits and be judged by their motives. And we must remember that it takes all kinds of men to make a city and we must make the best out of even the most of all the materials we have. Selfishness, ambition, antagonism and obstruction have prevailed to the destruction of mutual prosperity. Inasmuch as we cannot get rid of each other any more than we can get rid of human nature, we are compelled to give and take in a community of common interests. Every time you injure a citizen you injure a city. Every time you help one you promote the welfare of all.

Everything done for Poughkeepsie helps Newburgh; everything done for Newburgh helps Kingston; the development of Beacon helps Wappingers Falls, and so what is done for Peekskill helps the east shore, and for Haverstraw the west shore, and for Walden you help Newburgh.

Within the district of the Hudson Valley we have the most magnificent natural position in the United States. The group of communities comprehended by this union of Chambers of Commerce cannot be matched in America.

The Hudson Valley has never been developed because there has never been a plan for co-operative community promotion. The strength that should be united has always been scattered. Instead of realizing the wealth and possibilities of the Hudson Valley as a whole, we have worked one against another in a rivalry that has not accomplished much for anyone. Here we have the selfish man exemplified in the selfish community. In working alone for everything we get nothing.

What the Hudson Valley needs is a Hudson Valley campaign that will open the eyes of the world to the inestimable wealth of this magnificent region—an unrivaled highway for commerce and for homes.

As a matter of fact in many ways this territory is as unknown and as undeveloped as it was when Hendrick Hudson found it.

The courageous prospect before this association of cities is the fact that it is undeveloped and that the future is to be an evolution, a revelation and a perpetual charm.

The power of this association is unlimited. You have not even had a hint of what you can do. The dream of the West Shore will soon be realized in the completion of the grand scenic highway of the world. A great stream of travel, amazement, investigation, will pass through the Hudson Valley and the eyes of thousands will be directed to the possibilities of life along our river. What helps one side will help the other. Property will increase in value and new factories, new citizens, new ventures will enrich your towns.

You could not have organized this association at a more auspicious time. By considering each other's interests all towns share in the golden chance that must come when the advantages of the Hudson Valley become known. As a body of cities you can do what no one city can accomplish alone—your money, your men, and your ideas.

Travelers tell us that there is no such valley in North America. The river is an everlasting fascination. Nature gave us the wealth of the globe and all its glories in this glittering valley. It is man's paradise, workshop and university.

The people of the Hudson Valley are one people; your cities are one city; your ambitions, mutual and your aims identical.

VAN WAGENEN'S The 9 Cent Sale Ends Tomorrow at 10 P. M.

The limited time between now and the close of this unique and decidedly interesting event, offers the best possible reason for you to visit the store again and make additional purchases. Numerous groups of merchandise have again been greatly lowered in price to further establish the value giving ability of this store, and to create the liveliest selling possible for the last day.

A point which has been impressed upon all who have visited this Sale has been the surprising values made possible for nine little pennies by this 9c Sale. You will find it a common thing to be able to buy items which sold for 15c, for 9c while there are any number of articles which formerly sold for 25c and upwards, now marked at the really insignificant amount of 9c

Great railroad systems on either shore and inland ships of industry and pleasure—none like them to be found on any other river on earth.

Genius, wealth and power stamp their indelible marks of courage in the very structure of these vessels of modern achievement. It is an age of architecture, electricity, iron and brass.

Behind each shore vast acres of land await the magic mind of the scientific farmer; and the time is no far off when those who are struggling and starving and dying in New York will live in luxury upon the fertile banks of the Hudson Valley and contribute their service to the strength of the state.

You will solve the problems of the government of cities and towns and counties and learn from each other the lessons of your struggles and triumphs. It will promote an interchange of ideas covering the several questions of public service corporations; freight and transportation; the trolleys, the telephone, lighting heating and power. will become a tremendous political force for good and an advertising agency—performing for all what no other plan can afford to do for one.

It will result in a brotherhood of community life—protecting one another against fraud and assisting each other by the distribution of knowledge that will be of benefit to all.

Such an organization should have a strong sustaining force of members to carry out whatever program is designed by the common body.

The very prospect of this association is inspiring and its opportunities are without limit.

DROWNED NEAR EAST KINGSTON

Philip Ambos, a young man about 17 years old, residing at East Kingston, was drowned in the Hudson river this morning. He was in company with two other boys had taken a boat at Terry's brick yard and had gone across the river after some apples. On their return they got near the river bank and began to throw the apples ashore to some other boys. One of the apples fell in the river and young Ambos leaned over the edge of the boat to pick it up and losing his balance fell overboard. His companions jumped in after him after he failed to come to the surface but by the time they were able to get him ashore he had been in the water ten minutes. Dr. Frank Eastman was summoned and hurried to the scene but the young man had died before the arrival of the physician. Coroner E. A. Kelly was notified and issued a death certificate and the body was taken in charge by Murphy & Scherer the undertakers.

Encouraging Outlook.

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the annual excursion of the Bible school of the Church of the Redeemer report all arrangements ready. The iron steamer Siris of the New York Iron Steamboat Company has been chartered. The boat is a large and commodious craft, with every feature necessary to an enjoyable day on the water. Judging from the sale of tickets and amount of interest manifested, this will be the largest excursion the school has ever conducted.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Aug. 13.—There was a general cancellation of standing bids on brokers' books in anthracite shares this morning. The three active stocks in that group, Lehigh Valley, Erie and Reading, were pressed for sale and sustained substantial declines before buying orders were reached. Lehigh Valley, which closed yesterday at 144, opened at 142 and then sold down to 140, followed by a rally to 143½. Reading started at 147½, against 150½, at the close yesterday, and continued its decline to 146½, a loss of over four points, from which it rallied to 148½. The largest crowd was in Erie. Opening sales of that stock were 3,000 shares at prices ranging from 27½ to 27 on different sides of the crowd, against 29 at the close yesterday. It quickly rallied to 28½. Delaware and Hudson opened at 148½, about the same as the recent market range, although there had been no actual transaction in it for the past few days. Although trading at the outset was influenced by the pressure against the coal shares, a strong tone quickly developed and before the end of the first half hour nearly all the important issues ranged above yesterday's close. The war order stocks were again prominent. Crucible Steel rose 2 points to 83, American Can 1½ to 59½, and National Enameling 1½ to 29½. Canadian Pacific dropped 2½ in the first few minutes, but quickly improved to 153½. Steel common dropped ¾ to 73½, followed by an advance to 74, a net gain of ½ over yesterday's close. Pressed Steel Car opened down ¾ with a sharp upturn to 63½.

Noon.—There was a renewal of speculative demand and persistent accumulation, which caused upturns in many stocks. Reading sold around 145, Union Pacific around 131½, and Lehigh Valley around 141½. Baltimore & Ohio advanced a point to 82½, while Canadian Pacific sold around 152½. Pressed Steel Car advanced a point to 62½. Westinghouse ½, U. S. Steel ½ and Mexican Petroleum was up 2 points to 80. American Beet Sugar rose a point to 59½, and Southern Pacific advanced to 89½. Money loaning at 1½ per cent.

Studebaker Company was one of the most conspicuous issues in the first half of the last hour, selling up to 94½, a net advance of 6½ points. The tone was firm and the higher price levels were generally maintained.

The stock market closed unsettled; governments unchanged; other bonds steady.

GERMAN AIRSHIPS RAID ENGLAND

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
London, Aug. 13.—Six persons were killed and 20 wounded in another air raid which the Germans have made over England.

Official announcement of the raid was made today by the government press bureau.

Fourteen houses were destroyed or damaged by bombs dropped from the German air craft.

The district raided was on the north sea coast but the exact location of the region damaged was not revealed. It is supposed that the Germans attacked the ship building yards around Newcastle and the arsenal and naval stations near the mouth of the Thames river.

The raid took place last night, although news of it was concealed for nearly twenty hours.

The last air raid was made by Zeppelins late Monday night and early Tuesday morning when fourteen persons were killed.

One of the Zeppelins taking part in last night's attack is believed to have been damaged.

Aeroplane were sent aloft to give battle to the invaders and a hot fire from high angle guns was turned upon them.

LOCAL BASEBALL DOINGS.

Games Played or to be Played by the Home Teams.

John J. Tonskey, formerly manager of the fast Knights of Columbus baseball team which disbanded last week, has organized the Oriental team which will play its opening game at Hutton's Park on Sunday afternoon, having as their opponents the fast All-Kingston team. The Oriental line-up will be as follows: Long, first base; Markle, second base; Cox, short stop; Roach, third base; Ereit, right field; Murphy, center field; Schwab, left field; Culliton and Sutton, pitchers.

One of the fastest baseball games of the season will be played on Sunday afternoon at McVey's Field when the Red Monograms will clash with the Robin Hoods of Hyde Park. This is the third game of the series and each team has won one. The game Sunday will also witness the return to the Red Monograms of Glasier who broke his leg early in the season at Rhinebeck in a game between the locals and the team of that place. The Robin Hoods have been greatly strengthened by the acquisition of Campbell who at one time played with Newburgh in the days of the old Hudson River League. The game will be called at 3:30 o'clock sharp and undoubtedly there will be a large attendance.

AUTOMOBILE NOTES.

The state road running through the town of Esopus from Port Ewen to Highland has been completed between the West Park railroad station and the Lloyd town line. Construction is going on between a point about half a mile north of Esopus and West Park. The road at present is impassable for traffic and those who may by accident get as far as Esopus should turn to the right crossing the railroad tracks at the Esopus station and continuing up grade following the detour signs and coming out on to the main highway again at a point near the West Park station. This is a very hilly, crooked and narrow road and should not be used except in a case of necessity.

ODDS AND ENDS.

BENEFITS FROM BOOKS.

Traveling Along the Roads That Lead Us Into Other Worlds.

The benefit of literature can hardly be overestimated. Books enlarge a man's horizon. They raise a mirror of water brooks and date palm to travelers in the desert. They are "the sick man's health, the prisoner's release." Shut within a narrow routine of dull necessity, sad at heart in a world where wrong triumphs, where beauty has no assurance of respect, where humanity toils terribly merely for its daily bread or the satisfaction of trivial pleasures, the earthly pilgrim need do no more than pick up a book and, lo, he steps into another world.

Here he is free from sorrow and care, free from the burden of his body, from envy, jealousy, contempt, self satisfaction, from vain regrets, from wishes that can never wear the liveliest of hope, from narrowness of soul and hardness of heart.

He may mingle in the society of the good and great; he may listen to the wise man and the prophet; he may see all the conditions of human happiness and misery; he may watch the human spirit in its strife with circumstances nobly conquer or basely succumb; he may go down through the "gate of a hundred sorrows" or accompany Dante and Beatrice through the spheres of paradise.—Atlantic Monthly.

Tobacco Production.

India, second only to this country in the production of tobacco, consumes most of its own product and imports very little. Russia is third and raises practically all her supply, importing and exporting only a small quantity. Austria-Hungary is the fourth producing country, importing more than a fourth as much as it raises and exports one-eighth of its own crop. Germany is an extensive grower of tobacco, but imports two and a half times as much as it cultivates and does not export any. France raises considerable tobacco under government supervision and imports great quantities of the milder Virginia tobacco to keep up the quality of the cigarettes and other products made under the state monopoly. Both France and Spain keep buyers in this market.

A small bag cannot be made to contain what is large. A short rope cannot be used to draw water from a deep well.—Chinese Proverb.

UNLOADING GOLD FROM TRAIN.

$34,000,000 IN GOLD ON ONE TRAIN.

Picture shows the gold being unloaded from the train.

New York, Aug. 13.—The largest shipment of gold in the history of this country, $34,000,000 in gold coin and $21,000,000 in securities, is now safe in the U. S. sub-treasury in Wall street. The gold was shipped to the firm of J. P. Morgan & Company to bolster low prices in sterling exchange from England. A battle cruiser brought it across the Atlantic to Halifax, from which point it was transferred to New York in a special train of seven steel cars. The gold was in 700 boxes, each weighing 200 pounds apiece. Twenty-five enclosed auto trucks, heavily guarded were used to transport the gold from the railway station to the sub-treasury.

By Experience.

"Have you learned anything in the way of business during your four years' loaf at college?" demanded the pater.

"Sure!" said Reginald. "I can write the dandiest line of dunning letters you ever saw."

"Humph!" ejaculated the pater. "Who taught you that?"

"My creditors," said Reginald.—Life.

CONSCIOUS VIRTUE.

Conscious virtue is the only foundation of all happiness, for riches, power, rank or whatever, in the common acceptance of the world, is supposed to constitute happiness will never quiet much less cure, the inward pangs of guilt.—Lord Chesterfield.

Editorial Pleasantries.

Two editors quarreled, and one referred to the other's early career in his paper.

"As for our contemporary," he wrote, "what can we expect from a man who was five years ago hawking from door to door with a donkey, and an ill conditioned beast at that?"

His rival did not deny it, but in his next issue appeared the following:

"Our contemporary says that five years ago we were hawking from door to door with a donkey, and an ill conditioned beast at that." He is quite right. We were so occupied. But we are surprised to find the donkey has such a good memory."

A Fearful Punishment.

Compulsory sleeplessness, once a Chinese punishment for murder, is fatal in nine or ten days.

Greetings in China.

The Chinese salutation when friends meet consists in clasping the left hand with the right and waving it up and down, at the same time bowing deeply, or, if unusual respect is wished to be evinced, the Chinaman bows as low as possible, swinging his clasped hands between his legs backward and forward.

THE FUTURE.

I do not say we ought to be happier as we grow older, but we ought to be calmer, knowing better what life is and looking forward to another which we believe to be a reality, though we cannot tell what it means.—Jewett.

ROADS DAMAGED BY SEVERE STORMS

County authorities estimate the damage to town highways in Ulster county by the recent rain storms and especially the heavy storm on Monday at from $25,000 to $30,000. Owing to the fact that a considerable portion of the highway fund will have to be expended in repairing the extraordinary damage caused by the rain the town superintendents will be unable to keep the general highway conditions up to the standard, due to the lack of funds.

In the town of Rochester the large thirty foot bridge, known as Smith's bridge, crossing the Stonykill creek back of Accord, was washed out by the storm and not a trace of the bridge remains. Numberless small bridges and culverts were also washed out by the rain. The roads in many places were also washed out. The town superintendents are busy repairing the damage caused to the roads by the storm.

NELSON O'SHAUGHNESSY.

FORMER CHARGE D'AFFAIRS IN MEXICO A "ROOKIE" SOLDIER.

Nelson O'Shaughnessy as a "Rookie" at Plattsburg.

Plattsburg, N. Y., Aug. 13.—One of the "rookies" of the "rookies" among the 1,500 citizen soldiers now encamped here in the special military camp for business and professional men is the former charge d'affairs in Mexico City, Nelson O'Shaughnessy. The former charge is learning how to be a real soldier so that he will be able to fight in an intelligent manner if this country goes to war.

BLOOMINGTON.

Bloomington, Aug. 13.—Mr. and Mrs. Peter A. Black have returned home from a trip through the Catskills, including Poughkeepsie, Tannersville, Haines Falls, Hunter and other places of interest.

Mrs. Helen Deyo is spending some time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Black.

Walter C. Black, mayor of Troy, Alabama, has returned home, after spending a few days with relatives in town.

Mrs. Rufus LeFever and daughter Miss Mary LeFever and Mrs. Lorin LeFever and son, and with other friends visited Lake Mohonk on Thursday and enjoyed the trip very much.

Mrs. Mary Porter is entertaining her daughters through their vacation.

Godfrey Randegger visited his parents the week end of last week.

Miss Jessie DeWitt, tendered a party to the young folks of the town and vicinity last night.

Relatives from Brooklyn arrived here Tuesday for a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Beisner.

The bathing beach near Greenkill resumed its usual appearance on Wednesday. A crowd of bathers ventured to defy the chilly waters, but found them quite mild in spite of recent heavy rains.

Charles Relyea and daughter, Miss Helen of New York city, came on Wednesday to spend a few days with his mother, Mrs. Mary Relyea and sister Florence.

Mr. Scholters from St. Remy, who preached to us on the past Sunday morning, gave us an interesting sermon and to a large congregation.

The surprise hinted at on Tuesday came into definite form on that evening, when a real just like mother used to make surprise party was given to Harry and William Beisner by the young people of the village. All arrangements had been carefully planned, so that the surprise came entirely unexpected to the happy recipients. The youthful merry-makers through the evening occupied themselves in singing, feasting, playing parlor games of the good old fashioned variety and especially dancing.

A number of Bloomington folks today are taking the trip to Lake Mohonk on a special stage.

WOULD SHIFT ATTACK

Manager Herzog Favors Switching Tactics in Contests.

First Half of Game Usually Played in Way Differing From Last Period—Interesting Theory of Cincinnati Leader.

Manager Herzog of the Cincinnati Reds believes that the first half of a game of ball is usually to be played differently from the second half, that is, when applied to fairly close games.

He has quite an interesting theory on this subject, which is entirely original with him. "The average player," said Herzog, "does not realize the great difference between, say, the first five innings of a game and the last four innings. In the early stages of a game one doesn't know how many runs are going to be needed to win. It is impossible to say how the pitcher is going to go, or what the breaks are going to be. A team may need only one run to win or it may require a dozen.

"The odds are that it will need more than one. Therefore my policy early in the game is not to play for a single run, but to force the issue and try to score as many as possible. That is why I don't believe in the sacrifice game around in the first or second round, only to find that that lone run is worth nothing to us.

"The early half of a game should be an effort to score just as many runs as possible, for you never can be sure how many you are going to need. Pile up as big a lead as you can in the first few innings and so be prepared for emergencies. But suppose both pitchers are going strongly and we come up to the sixth or seventh inning tied, or one run behind or ahead.

"Then the whole situation changes. It is evident by that time what your pitcher is capable of and a single run becomes much more important than it was in the first or second inning. You will often see our men playing a sacrifice game from the sixth inning on, because by that time we may have found out that one run will win for us in the game for an inning or two longer. This is a very important principle of the game and one that is often overlooked by both players and managers.

"Whenever I see a club fighting to get one run around in the first or second inning and neglecting possible chances to score three or four runs, I have it figured out that we have a good chance to beat that club. You will often see a change in our style of play as the game grows older, and I think the system will win many close games for us."

BATTERS "PULL AWAY"

"The biggest trouble with present-day batters is they pull away from the plate instead of wading into the ball," says Jawn McGraw, Giant foreman.

"For a long time I refused to pay attention to folk who said ball players don't hit as well as the old-timers, but now I'm convinced. The youngsters coming up just naturally don't hit; that's all. You can't get them to step into the ball. I haven't played for a long time, but I can get in there any day and hit better than some of the chaps I see around the circuit."

Baltimore Likes Johnson.

Rankin Johnson's work with the Terrapins is causing Baltimore fans to laugh at Manager Joe Tinker for turning the former Red Sox player over. It wasn't Joe's fault, as he gave the twirler every chance possible to show something. Johnson had merely reached that stage where a change of scenery was needed.

SIGNALS FROM AIR CRAFT.

Spot Clouds, Mirror Flashes and Torch Bombs Are Used.

To an army commander the value of a military aeroplane is its power to locate hostile artillery and direct gunfire rather than its bomb dropping possibilities. Thus it is very necessary that a pilot several thousand feet in the air should be able to communicate with the headquarters staff on earth so that he may convey the necessary information for the guidance of gunners hurling shells at targets miles ahead which they cannot see.

A very ingenious method of signaling from an aeroplane is by means of spot clouds. An apparatus filled with lampblack rests near the hand of the aviator, and when he presses a lever some of this soot passes down a pipe and is discharged in a black cloud. The pipe is so delicately arranged that the clouds may be small or large. The operator can spell out the Morse telegraphic code in little clouds, and they can be read from the earth when the aviator is 1000 feet high.

Another clever means of signaling from air craft is that carried out by means of lamps and mirrors. A lamp which has a flash of 100,000 candle power sends piercing rays of light through a tube fitted with powerful magnifying glasses. When a message is sent the operator directs his flasher in the required direction, presses a button, and a brilliant light flashes out, long or short, according to the pressure. The officers on earth receive the message and may send a reply in the same way, being provided with similar mirrors and lamps. The rays of light sent out are almost as bright as sunlight, so that they can be seen with the naked eye for a distance of four miles in the daytime and at night for a distance of eight miles.

When military aviators wish to drop a written communication to the earth without descending they utilize an ingenious bomb. This contains the document, and the projectile is weighted so that it falls sharp and first. As the end strikes the ground a trigger is released, which sets fire to a torch on top, and thus the location of the bomb is indicated day or night.—Pearson's Weekly.

A SALON DIALOGUE

By WILLIAM CHANDLER

"What a pity it is," said Betty Chamberlin to me, "that Harry Ashurst is going to throw himself away on that Perkins girl!"

"What's the matter with Ida Perkins?" I asked.

"Oh, nothing," replied Betty, "only she's not half good enough for Harry."

"Why don't you interrupt the proceedings?"

"How could I do that?"

"Step in between them."

"You flatterer! One would think to hear you talk that I could have any man I want for the asking."

"So you could and not half try."

Betty tried hard to conceal the pleasure my appreciation of her powers gave her, but failed.

"There's one man I couldn't—"

"Who?"

"The first letter of his first name is J."

"That's because you never tried."

"My first name is James."

"Perhaps I will."

"What would poor Harry do in the meanwhile? He would be swallowed up by Ida Perkins."

"Oh, that affair could wait."

"When are you going to begin on me?"

"You? Oh, you can wait too. Good morning. Come and see me soon. I have things to tell you."

"Very soon. Goodbye!"

This scrap of conversation, which I am free to admit was not concentrated wisdom, occurred at the glove counter of Jones, where I met Miss Chamberlin. The next time I saw her was at Mrs. Winters' salon, so called from the brilliant dialogues that take place there. Betty was tied to Ashurst. He was a graduate of a scientific school and could drown her in a pool of ideas seven feet deep. I was sandwiched between two girls directly behind them. We conversed with one another, but had our ears open for what Ashurst and Betty were saying. One of the girls beside me was Ida Perkins. The only remark that could be considered to refer to the couple in front of us was made by Ida. It was this:

"Why do you bright men get stuck in the honey of stupid girls?"

"Leave out the 'you,' and I will answer the question," I replied.

But she wouldn't, and I confess I would not have been pleased if she had.

Betty made a lodgment with Ashurst at that salon, and this is the way she did it.

"I have heard, Mr. Ashurst," she was saying, "that you are not one of the kind to feel certain of anything and that you never force your opinions on any one."

"Confound those persons who know everything!" grunted Ashurst.

"So say I—that is, I mean persons who don't know as much as other persons who know a great deal, but are not constantly trying to show it off."

This was a trifle mixed, but Ashurst didn't seem to mind it.

"Some of the women here make me laugh," Betty went on. "They think they're quite wise. Don't they tire you, Mr. Ashurst?"

"I don't know; some of them do."

"I heard one of them just now talking about the big European war. She said the allies had the best generals only they had been short of ammunition."

"Which allies?"

"Why, I suppose she meant—is there more than one ally?"

I saw Ida Perkins and Belle Townsend—Belle was the other side of the sandwich that had me for a middle—look at each other. Fortunately for Betty a lady passed her, bidding her good evening and making a remark about the weather. So Bet was not obliged to go any further into the military problems of the great war. Indeed, it had not been her intention to do so. She had become inadvertently drawn into it by attempting to hold up one of her rivals in an unfavorable light.

"Are you fond of motoring, Mr. Ashurst?" was her next remark. "I don't suppose you are. At least so busy a man as you is not likely to have time to enjoy himself."

Ashurst was the scientific adviser of a gigantic manufacturing corporation. He looked relieved that Betty should have spared him the trouble of answering the question she had asked him. Bet has beautiful eyes and knows that they serve her a better purpose than her tongue, for unfortunately the latter member cannot wag without drawing on her brain.

"The reason why I asked you if you were fond of motoring is that I have a car, and if you could spare me some afternoon about 4 o'clock—"

"I should be very happy," was the reply.

"Don't you think an ice would cool us? These rooms are very warm."

They arose and went elsewhere. Bet had caught sight of Ida in rather too close proximity to suit her.

The next time I saw Betty I congratulated her on her engagement to Ashurst. "Didn't I tell you," I said, "that you could if you tried?"

"What's this I hear about you and Ida Perkins?" she asked, looking at me anxiously.

"Oh, we're engaged too."

I have never since regained the place I occupied in Betty's good graces. I don't see why. Surely she could not have Ashurst and me too. Perhaps if I had married any but the girl she robbed of another man she might have remained my friend.

Hard Water.

The streams of water used in hydraulic mining are said to be so swift that if one tried to back into them with a sword the weapon would fly to pieces. The water is moving so rapidly that it has no time to yield beneath the stroke and in consequence is like a bar of iron.

Lay's Big Saturday Sale

High living at low cost—that's what it means to have your larder constantly supplied with our Bolognas, Frankfurters or Wiener Wurst. They are tempting and nourishing and save time, effort and anxiety at the lowest cost during warm weather. At a much higher price these products would still be economical, and at any price they could be no better. Their flavor is delicious. They stand so high in purity and food value and there are so many pleasing ways to serve them that they are always satisfying. Try either of them Saturday when you order your meats for Sunday. The worst order need not be large. Just try them and we know you'll ask for more.

The lard which we specialize for Saturday is pure and put up in Sanitary Cartons.

If This Is Your Birthday
AUGUST 13

If this is your birthday, do not give way to discouragement. Do not give up because someone criticizes you, but look at your efforts honestly and determine to profit by advice. A just criticism has helped many men to the right way to success.

This is a fortunate birthday having Leo for its birth sign and the sun for its planet.

Both of these influences are favorable to love and money undertakings.

The nature of one having this birthday is forceful, attractive and the mind keenly intuitive. The physical health is usually robust.

The most congenial mate will be found between November 21 and December 22. This marriage augurs happiness.

PUT first whatever you please—morals, best best thing is getting along in the business world. Some men right in the thick of the business whirl could improve their condition 100 per cent if they followed the rules of the man who uses his advertising appropriation judiciously.

Waste of newspaper space is gross extravagance and leaves the impression that advertising doesn't pay. Let me

RUSSIAN PRESS
CRITICISES ALLIES

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Petrograd, Aug. 13.—Criticism of the western allies is beginning to appear in the Russian press for the first time since the war began.

Whether this proceeding has official sanction is not known, but today the Novoe Vremya, which is often used for the dissemination of government news, prints sharp comment on the fact that large shipments of cotton are reaching Germany through neutrals.

"It is unthinkable," says the Novoe Vremya "that during this year of life and death, English cruisers should look on quietly at the export of cotton, which is a most important element for the German artillery."

The article concludes with the assertion that U. S. herself set a precedent in the Civil War by declaring cotton contraband, intimating that similar action ought to be taken by England.

In City Court.

City Judge W. D. Brincker, Jr., disposed of several cases in city court
this morning.

In the case of John Barnhardt against Frank Roosa, an action to recover for plumbing work done, judgment for the plaintiff for $67 was taken by default.

A jury was drawn for the trial of the case of Mary Dee against the city of Kingston which came up at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Plaintiff sued to recover for damages to her property on Brewster street by reason of the city blasting our rock at the stone crushing plant. Decision was reserved.

In the case of James Austin against H. V. Berry to recover for work, labor and services, an ad-judgment was taken for one week.

Frank W. Brooks appeared for the plaintiff and V. B. Van Wageningen for defendant.

The Coleman Tailoring Company against Harry Lewis, an action over a disputed account was adjourned until August 18. Frank W. Brooks represented the plaintiff and Henry Klein the defendant.

Various cases held open for one week were E. T. Stelle against Aschenback; Freeman Publishing Company against A. C. Baylor; Colgate against Johnson and Elizabeth Goedtel against Alfred Bailey; F. E.
W. Darrow and Newton H. Fessen-den represented various parties.

Mammoth Man's Loss.

A man claiming to hail from Mar-bletown came to town on Thursday night and saw the sights of the village. He said he had $50 when he arrived but after a taxicab ride around town and visiting several salons he missed his roll. The man apparently was not acquainted with places but told that in one of them he met some colored girls and thought they had abstracted his money. No complaint of the theft was reported to the police. As far as the visitor knew he had spent but $12 of his hard earned savings and circulated he had been robbed of $38.

Memorial.

Cornish—Margaret Peters Hasbrouck was born in the town of Hal-cott, Greene county, New York, April 28, 1827, and died at the residence of her son, Rev. James Marion Cornish, 59 Post street, Saugerties,
New York, at noon on Wednesday,
August 11, 1915, aged 88 years, 3 months and 13 days. For the last three years she has been in failing health, but since Tuesday, July 27, steadily declined unto death. She was a daughter of Jacob I. Hasbrouck Jr. and his wife, Catharine Knickerbocker, to whom were born ten children, all of whom have now departed this life.

Margaret Peters Hasbrouck was a granddaughter of Jacob I. and Sarah DuBois Hasbrouck of Marbletown, N.
Y., and in the sixth generation from Jean Hasbrouck, the New Paltz patente.

She was named for her father's sister Margaret, who married Dr. William Peters.

On the Birch creek road, one mile from Pine Hill village, at her father's home—now the estate of the late Dr. Schley's family—July 11, 1849, she was married by the Rev. John P. Van Valkenburgh to James Chilson Cornish. The husband died October 2, 1908. By trade he was a contractor and builder. In 1882 he built the Cornish House at Pine Hill, of which he was the proprietor until death, and which was sold by the family to A. D. Hill
April 28, 1915.

Of this union four children were born, namely, Rev. James Marion Cornish, of the New York Conference, pastor of the Wesleyan Methodist Episcopal Church, Saugerties,
New York, for the past eleven years;
Matthew DeWitt Cornish of Pine
Hill, New York, Mrs. Frances
Amelia Fleming, widow of George Irving Fleming, of Sidney, Delaware county, New York; Jacob Miller
Hasbrouck, Cornish, of Woodstock,
Salem county, New Jersey.

Margaret Peters Cornish was converted to God in the school house at Pine Hill under the ministry of the Rev. Charles Palmer, of the New York conference, during the fall and winter of 1856 and 1857. Shortly after the family removed to Brooklyn, L. I., where they united with the Sands Street Methodist Episcopal Church, from probation in the month of September, 1857, the Rev.
John Miley, pastor. At the time of death she was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Pine Hill, N. Y., where in young womanhood she gave her heart to Christ.

On her father's side she was of Huguenot ancestry and of the Dutch Reformed faith, while her mother was of the Baptist faith. For herself she became an Arminian in faith, and a devoted member of the church of her choice. She was a faithful reader and student of the Word of God, and a clear Christian experience of conversion, was a woman of remarkable power in prayer, always bore an exalted witness as to Christ's saving power, and a little while before she became powerless to witness said: "Jesus is precious —is precious—is precious to me.
O, he is so precious to me." She has gone to abide with him "who is the chiefest among ten thousand and altogether lovely." The funeral services were at 59 Post street, Saug-erties, New York, Friday, August 13, 1915, at 3:30 p. m. Address by the Rev. John J. Dean of Kingston, N. Y., a former pastor of the family,
Interment in Pine Hill Cemetery,
Saturday, August 14, 10 a. m., Rev.
Daniel N. F. Blakeney, pastor in charge.

The Moose Carnival at the Athletic Field this week continues to draw large crowds and it is expected that tonight and Saturday will see the largest attendance of the week. The carnival is one of the best ever seen in this city and the Moose are using every effort to give their friends an enjoyable week. The high diving by Lefty Rochett is one of the features of the carnival. He dives both afternoon and evening each day during the week. The dog and pony show, the honey moon trip, the side shows and other shows on the grounds are exceptionally good and are attracting the attention of all. The riding devices are also well patronized as well as the concessions on the grounds. The best of order is being preserved on the grounds and at night with the large number of electric lights the grounds present an attractive scene.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, Aug. 13.—Dennis Wille, the Indian outfielder, recently established a peculiar record. In a game against the Athletics he went to bat five times. He reached first every time, but never once did he reach second.

Here is Wille's record:
First inning—Bunt singled and was forced at second by Turner.
Second inning—Singled and was out stealing.
Fourth inning—Beat out a bunt and died stealing.
Sixth—Walked with two down and died on first.
Eighth—Hit by pitched ball and was forced by Turner at second.

Kolehmainen's Peculiar Diet.
Hannes Kolehmainen, the wonderful Finnish runner, trains on a peculiar diet. He eats nothing but soft boiled eggs, tea, toast and ice cream. He eats it for breakfast, for luncheon and for dinner. Day after day, week after week, the Finn subsists on eggs, toast, ice cream and tea—just that and nothing more.

Rickey Building With Collegians.
Branch Rickey, boss of the St. Louis Browns, has started to rebuild his team—and all his new material is being secured from the colleges.

"College players, as a rule are brainier and more gentlemanly than the sand lot players," asserts Rickey. "And there's just as much natural ability among the collegians as there is among the youths who come from the small town teams."

Connie Mack built a wonderful machine with raw material secured from various colleges and I hope to do likewise.
"Furthermore, a college player can be secured for almost nothing in comparison with what one must pay now for a highly touted minor league player."

Fighting Fan the Whole Show.
About 600 fight fans turned out recently to see the 10 round bout between Cal Delaney and Artie Root, in Akron, Ohio, but they stopped looking at the fight after the first round began and focused their attention thereafter on a wildly excited spectator.

Obnoxious to everyone else in the auditorium, this fan was unscrupulously imitating the fighters. When Delaney would swing, so would the fan. When Root side-stepped and then blocked, the fan did likewise. Throughout the entire ten rounds the fan fought as hard, in pantomime, as did both the paid fighters.

Early in the fight there were other spectators in the seats, alongside of the fan. But when he began his swings they adopted the "safety first" rule and beat it beyond the reach of the excited party's fists.

Why Fred Clarke Doesn't Coach.
Manager Fred Clarke, of the Pirates, criticized because he hasn't gone on the coaching lines very much this season, makes this defense:

"I am needed more on the bench, where I can advise the young players just what to do when they go to bat.
"Baseball is, in a large measure, a game of wits. A young player cannot match wits with a veteran pitcher unless he is advised and my duty, as I see it, is to tip off my youngsters just what they are to expect and then advise them how to beat the veteran."

"It doesn't suffice to tell a youngster what to do just once or twice. He must be told again and again until the advice is indelibly stamped on his brain. And some youngsters, you know, have brains that resist advice for a long time."

Generalizations Impossible.

The truth is that age and power of achievement cannot be linked in sweeping generalities. It all depends upon the individual. One man may reach his highest mental powers before thirty and then decline, just as one man will reach his greatest physical strength before forty and then begin going downhill, while the mind of another may be most active at sixty or seventy.
